Something For Everyone...

BATH

The Village of Bath was founded in 1784 and first settled by members of a Loyalist Regiment. Many original structures still exist today within the Village. The Village of Bath offers a wide variety of amusements. There are boat ramps for the avid boater and plenty of places to fish with both the Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario handy. Bath also has public tennis courts, scenic roads for cyclists and a magnificent Canada Day Celebration that draws thousands of people.

The Fairfield-Guitzeit House, with its Georgian style architecture was built in 1796 by the Fairfield Brothers. This beautiful house is furnished in the Victorian era, with collectibles dating back 200 years or more. 341 Main St. Bath, Open for Tours: mid-June to Labour Day.

The Loyalist Golf and Country Club offers challenging play to golfers of all skill levels. Bent grass greens, tees and fairways are all constructed to USGA specifications, including a fully stocked Pro Shop, water on 12 holes and 52 Ohio white sand bunkers. This truly is an essential destination for the golf enthusiast.

Bath Museum

located on the upper floor of Layer Cake Hall, features United Empire Loyalist, WW1 & WW2 memorabilia & Indian artifacts dating back 4000 years. The hall, built in 1859, is the Village's only example of Gothic Revival. Open May to Sept. and by appointment.

Finkle Park

Finkle Park is one of Loyalist's historical gems along the shores of Lake Ontario. This area was known for its shipbuilding and was the site of the first steamship on Lake Ontario. The park has seasonal washrooms, a pavillion, boat launching facilities and a picturesque boardwalk along the lake.

AMHERSTVIEW

Amherstview is the "Eastern Gateway to the Loyalist Parkway". The Gateway was officially dedicated by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II in 1984. The Parkway follows the course of Loyalist settlement which commenced in 1784. One of Ontario's premiere driving and cycling tours, the Parkway is dotted with 18th and 19th century homesteads, historical attractions and unsurpassing beauty.

Fairfield House

(4575 Bath Rd) was built by the United Empire Loyalist, William Fairfield, in 1793. It has since been restored to its original Georgian style. Hear the story of the life and times of the Loyalist settlers and enjoy the park that has a playground, picnic tables and BBQ sites.

ODESSA

Originally named Millcreek, in 1838 the York Road passed through the community giving its economy a boost. In 1855, Millcreek was renamed Odessa, to commemorate the siege by the British Fleet.

Babcock Mill

Built in 1856 this historic mill is a must see when visiting Odessa. The mill combined Odessa. The mill combined woolen factory, grist, planing and saw milling operations. It has been restored as a fully operational water-powered mill and park site.

Camden Braes Golf and Country Club

This beautiful course offers 18 holes with abundant water hazards, large sculptured greens, mature trees and a quiet, picturesque landscape. Enjoy a beverage and meal in this tranquil setting.
